OTHER SLIDE QUESTIONS

1. How is Ashurnasirpal II identified in this relief?

ANS:

Ashurnasirpal II (Figure 2-21). The Kalhu panel shows the king, taller than everyone else as befits his rank, delicately holding a cup. The king and the attendant behind him are in consistent profile view, but the painter adhered to the rule of showing the eye from the front in a profile head.

PTS: 1

KEY: Slide Questions

2. What makes this depiction of Gudea significant?

ANS:

Gudea (Figure 2-17). The overflowing water jar that Gudea holds symbolizes the prosperity the ruler of Lagash brings to his people. In Mesopotamian art, normally only gods and goddesses are the sources of life-giving water.

PTS: 1

KEY: Slide Questions

SHORT ANSWER

1. What is the significance of cuneiform?

ANS:

It marked the beginning of writing, as historians strictly define it and led to more sophisticated, complex grammatical constructions.

PTS: 1

2. Explain the importance of cylinder seals.

ANS:

They were prized possessions indicating status and served as devices to identify ownership and prevent unauthorized use as well as a "signature."

PTS: 1

3. What is a lamassu and where was it placed?

ANS:

It is a winged manheaded bull as a guardian at the gate of the palace.

PTS: 1

4. What is an iwan?

ANS:

It is brick audience hall covered by a barrel vault.

PTS: 1

5. Discuss the significance and function of cylinder seals.

ANS:

Cylinder seals were prized possessions, signifying high positions in society; however, they were used primarily to authenticate documents and protect storage jars and doors from tampering.

PTS: 1

6. What is the most important archaeological source of knowledge regarding Persian architecture?

ANS:

Persepolis

PTS: 1

7. Discuss the focus of Sumerian city planning.

ANS:

It reflected the importance of religion in daily life; the city's nucleus was the temple that also served as the administrative and economic center for the city, thus representing both religious and secular functionalities.

PTS: 1

8. Why was the concept of the city-state an important innovation?

ANS:

The community rather than the family assumes the function of defense. Other activities such as manufacturing or trade or administration become institutionalized, thus gaining a unique and permanent identity.

PTS: 1

9. What do the reliefs of the palace of Ashurbanipal at Nineveh depict?

ANS:

They depict the glory and power of the king as the triumphant ruler.

PTS: 1

10. The Elamite Empire was strong enough to plunder Babylon and carry off the steles of Naram-Sin and Hammurabi, then reerect them in their capital city of Susa. Why is this event significant?

ANS:

It demonstrated their political and military superiority as the leading power during this time.

PTS: 1

11. How does the lamassu provide a conceptual picture and all of its important parts?

ANS:

It presents a front view of the animal at rest and a side view of it in motion, thus showing the creature with all its important parts.

PTS: 1

12. What is the purpose of a votive figure?

ANS:

It offers constant prayers to the gods on behalf of the donor.

PTS: 1

13. Describe an architectural feature used at Persepolis that seems to have been uniquely Persian.

ANS:

Capitals with the foreparts of lions or bulls appear to have been uniquely Persian.

PTS: 1

14. How do the reliefs on the Palace of Darius at Persepolis reflect the purpose of the building?

ANS:

The relief of subject nations bringing tribute to the Persian ruler and the complex palace ceremonials echoed the purpose of the great palace, which was intended to symbolize Persian power.

PTS: 1

15. What was the importance of the code of Hammurabi?

ANS:

He developed a codified series of laws that brought unity to the conflicting and often unwritten laws of Mesopotamia and probably influenced the Law of Moses, which had such a profound effect on Western civilization.

PTS: 1

16. Describe three stylistic conventions found in Sumerian sculpture.

ANS:

Sumerian relief sculpture uses the convention of showing figures in profile with shoulders fully frontal, and the poses are regularized and repeated. An oval shape is used for full round sculpture; eyes are large, and hands are often clasped.

PTS: 1

17. Why is the Hittite Lion Gate at Boghazköy significant?

ANS:

It demonstrates a theme that was echoed throughout the Ancient Near East. The gate presents the idea of protection; the lions protect the city.
