

Fischer: Introduction to Security, 9th Edition

Chapter 02: Defining Security's Role

Multiple Choice

1. Security practices and procedures cover a broad spectrum of activities designed to eliminate or mitigate the full range of potential hazards. These protection measures may include:
 - a. Building and perimeter protection
 - b. Intrusion and access control
 - c. Fire prevention and control
 - d. Emergency response capabilities
 - e. All of the above

ANS: e

2. The combination of proprietary and contract security is referred to as:
 - a. An integrated system
 - b. A hybrid system
 - c. An inefficient system
 - d. All of the above

ANS: b

3. Which of the below listed attributes is not considered to be an advantage of a contract security service?
 - a. Cost
 - b. Staffing
 - c. Impartiality
 - d. Expertise
 - e. Control

ANS: e

4. Private security and public law enforcement perform the same role.
 - a. True
 - b. False

ANS: b

5. Hazards against which private security seeks to provide protection are commonly divided into man-made and natural.

- a. True
- b. False

ANS: a

6. Security practices and procedures cover a broad spectrum of activities designed to eliminate or mitigate the full range of potential hazards (loss, damage or injury).

- a. True
- b. False

ANS: a

7. Private security services may be a mixture of proprietary and contract services, also know as a hybrid system.

- a. True
- b. False

ANS: a

8. According to various sources, security officer services, whether proprietary or contract, are being used much less due to the growth in use of technology.

- a. True
- b. False

ANS: b