Essay Questions

41. Stanley runs a business in Middletown. He knows bribing an officer in return for favorable duties is a crime. However, he avoids "bribery" by sending "gifts" to the sheriff as a token of appreciation for the officer's services to the town. The sheriff is impressed by Stanley's act and ensures that his business is "well protected." Analyze the situation.

42. Small towns want to restrict the speed of trains passing through the towns to 20 miles per hour. The Federal Railroad Administration allows trains to travel through the towns at up to 70 miles per hour. Discuss whether or not the towns may restrict the speed of the trains.
43. A local city council enacts an ordinance that prohibits aircraft from taking off before 7:00 A.M., disturbing the city's residents. An airline whose schedule is subject to federal regulation challenges this ordinance. Discuss the legal basis of this challenge and the likely outcome.
44. A Massachusetts law prohibited governmental agencies of Massachusetts from buying goods from companies that conducted business with Myanmar. If the U.S. Supreme Court were to strike down this law, what might be the basis?

45. A state law restricts the sulfur dioxide emissions from electric generation plants more severely than those of the federal Clean Air Act. Must an electric generation plant obey the state law or may it follow the federal statute?

46. Pierce was arrested under a city ordinance that made distributing handbills on the city streets a crime. Pierce argued that the U.S. Constitution guaranteed his right to free speech under the First Amendment. The local prosecutor argued that the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution did not apply to state laws. Was the prosecutor correct? Explain.

47. Matrix Corp. is fined by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration for violations of workplace safety regulations. Matrix challenges the fine on the basis that it was not allowed to have a jury trial before being fined. What resolution will result?
48. A court decides that a state agency, rather than a federal one, can control what government employees, in the course of performing their duties, are permitted to talk or write about in relation to official policies, procedures, and programs. Such a prohibition might appear to violate the employee's Constitutional right of free speech as a U.S. citizen. Analyze.

49. In a case presented to a Philadelphia court, the judge and the jury realize that no specific statute is applicable and decide to refer to previously recorded legal decisions made in similar cases. Discuss.

50. Helen, a 15-year-old citizen of Illinois, was about to go to the doctor for an abortion when the Supreme Court of Michigan ruled that minors could not receive an abortion without parental consent. What effect might the Michigan Supreme Court's decision have on Helen?

Chapter 02 Sources of the Law Answer Key

True / False Questions

1. The primary objective of law is to maintain harmony, stability, and justice within a society.

TRUE

The law consists of rules of conduct established by the government of a society to maintain harmony, stability, and justice. More often than not, however, "real life" is not harmonious, and justice must be sacrificed for harmony and stability.

2. The law is a delicate balancing act between the power of the state and the rights of individuals.

FALSE

The law should be viewed as a delicate balancing act between the competing interests and rights of different groups of people. Further, the limitations and biases of judges, legislators, and the prosecutors require trade-offs and compromises to an already complex legal system.

3. Trade-offs rarely occur within the law.

FALSE

On the contrary, trade-offs routinely occur within the legal system. One person is allowed to go free, while another is imprisoned, fined, and forced to forfeit his property. One corporation's contracts are upheld, while another's are struck down.

7. The Articles of Confederation created a strong national government.

FALSE

The first constitution of the United States was the Articles of Confederation—not the current Constitution. The Articles of Confederation were created to hold together a fragile coalition of states, each of which was determined to maintain its own independent existence. One of the main weaknesses of the Articles was the inability of Congress to impose taxes or tariffs.

TRUE

James Madison and other delegates to the Philadelphia convention in the late 1700s believed that Congress should have no power to enforce, eliminate, or modify rights. Some delegates warned that if some rights were listed, it would give the impression that those were the only rights that mattered. Therefore, it would be better to leave all mention of rights out of the original Constitution.

TRUE

Although extreme, it is likely that many of the delegates to the Philadelphia convention would have actually preferred Congress choose the President. However, the delegates compromised on the Electoral College in which the people would directly vote for electors, who in turn would vote for the President. Note that the framers, who wanted a buffer between the people and the President, assumed that electors would always be land-owning, educated men of high class.

- A. dualities; spirit; letter
- B. dualities; words; interpretation
- C. dualities; abstract; concrete
- D. dualities; uncertainty; reason

According to Professor Anthony Chase, one of the most obvious dualities in the law is the balance between the spirit and the letter of the law. - B. 18th Amendment which gave 18-year-olds the right to vote
- C. 14th Amendment's due process and equal protection
- D. 21st Amendment which gave women the right to vote

Although there are many important amendments, what is widely recognized as the single most important amendment outside of the Bill of Rights is the 14th Amendment that guarantees due process and the equal protection of the law to all people. Since its inception in 1868, the courts have decided the 14th amendment means that the Bill of Rights must be enforced by the states as well as by the national government. - B. binding precedent in all Florida state courts.
- C. binding in neighboring state courts.
- D. binding precedent in all Florida federal courts.

Whether a precedent is binding or persuasive is determined by the court's location. For instance, decisions made by the Florida Supreme Court would be binding in all Florida state courts, but persuasive in all other states' courts.

36. Under the doctrine of _____, courts determine the constitutionality of statutes, regulations or executive actions, taking into account any _____ in its analysis.

- A. statutory interpretation; persuasive precedent
- B. statutory interpretation; binding precedent
- C. judicial review; persuasive precedent
- D. judicial review; binding precedent

When exercising its power of judicial review, a court will analyze whether the statute or regulation in question is compatible with Constitutional precedent. If the two are compatible, no problem exists; however if they are contradictory, the statute or regulation will be "struck down" as unconstitutional.

37. A business asks a court to interpret the way in which a newly enacted shoplifter detention statute will be applied if the business, at some future point, detains a suspected shoplifter. The court may:

- A. issue an advisory memorandum.
- B. convene a conference of business and consumer representatives.
- C. not interpret the statute until a lawsuit is filed challenging the statute.
- D. ask the legislature to issue an advisory memorandum.

Courts are not free to interpret statutes without a lawsuit that challenges the particular statute. When analyzing a statute, courts look to a variety of sources, including the legislative history, why the old statute was replaced, and any binding precedent that interprets that statute.

38. A _____ is a network of interacting conditions which _____ one another, while at the same time _____ change from agents outside and inside the system.

- A. legal ecosystem; adjust to; reinforces
- B. complex adaptive system; reinforce; adjusts to
- C. legal ecosystem; reinforce; adjusting to
- D. complex adaptive system; adjusts to; reinforces

The ultimate purpose of a Complex Adaptive System (CAS) is the survival and improvement of the system itself. Natural examples of CASs would include beehives, anthills, and the neural network of the human brain. All CASs share at least five elements—interaction with many agents, no central controlling agent, complexities, long-term adeptness to changes, and inferential to future events.

39. A new administrative regulation allowed the Social Security Administration to charge women for Social Security cards, yet enabled men to obtain the cards for free. A lawsuit was filed challenging the constitutionality of this new regulation. If you were a justice on the Supreme Court you would most likely

- A. review common law to see whether a precedent exists.
- B. use statutory interpretation to clarify the law.
- C. rule the regulation unconstitutional.
- D. let the regulation stand.

Because the Constitution is the supreme law of the land, any regulation or statute that is contrary to it must be held unconstitutional. In this case, because the regulation treats men and women differently, it would be held unconstitutional because it violates the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment.

Essay Questions

41. Stanley runs a business in Middletown. He knows bribing an officer in return for favorable duties is a crime. However, he avoids "bribery" by sending "gifts" to the sheriff as a token of appreciation for the officer's services to the town. The sheriff is impressed by Stanley's act and ensures that his business is "well protected." Analyze the situation.

According to Professor Anthony Chase, one of the most obvious dualities in the law is the balance between the spirit and the letter of the law. Generally, a person who follows the spirit of the law has found its actual intent, while one who is tied to the letter of the law has missed its true meaning. In this case, Stanley seems to have complied with the letter of the law, but not the spirit of the law, missing the true meaning of the prohibition of bribery which ensures all citizens are treated equally.

The administration should analyze if this decision of the state comes with the intent of taking extra precautions for public safety. Have accidents occurred in the past? Notwithstanding, state statutes can be preempted by federal statutes in areas that are traditionally that of the federal government.

The principle of supremacy—the commerce clause in this case—allows federal regulations enacted under Constitutional authority to be superior to state law. The airline wins.

44. A Massachusetts law prohibited governmental agencies of Massachusetts from buying goods from companies that conducted business with Myanmar. If the U.S. Supreme Court were to strike down this law, what might be the basis?

The Supreme Court of the United States can use the preemption doctrine to strike down this Massachusetts law. Preemption is the process by which the courts decide that a federal statute must take precedence over a state statute. The courts can preempt a state statute that has entered an area of the law that is traditionally an area that the federal government handles, such as national security or immigration.

45. A state law restricts the sulfur dioxide emissions from electric generation plants more severely than those of the federal Clean Air Act. Must an electric generation plant obey the state law or may it follow the federal statute?

State statutes can be preempted by federal statutes when they conflict with the objectives of federal legislation. The courts will preempt a state statute that has entered an area of the law that is exclusively an area belonging to the federal government. Since clean air regulation is not one of those areas, a state may have more stringent requirements for air pollution than the federal government, as long as the state statute is not in conflict with the federal Clean Air Act.

Pierce argued that the U.S. Constitution guaranteed his right to free speech under the First Amendment. The local prosecutor argued that the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution did not apply to state laws. Was the prosecutor correct? Explain.

The prosecutor was wrong. Pierce's argument was correct in that the Fourteenth Amendment extends the protections of the Bill of Rights to state governments.

A court decides that a state agency, rather than a federal one, can control what government employees, in the course of performing their duties, are permitted to talk or write about in relation to official policies, procedures, and programs. Such a prohibition might appear to violate the employee's Constitutional right of free speech as a U.S. citizen. Analyze.

Devolution occurs when the courts redefine a right and shift the obligation to enforce a right from an upper level authority to a lower one. In such cases, the court has decided that the duty and the power to define and enforce that right belong to the state, rather than to the federal government. It is important to note that the devolution of a right does not destroy that right. Rather, devolution simply redistributes the authority to define the nature of that right in certain situations.

49. In a case presented to a Philadelphia court, the judge and the jury realize that no specific statute is applicable and decide to refer to previously recorded legal decisions made in similar cases. Discuss.

The judge and the jury will arrive at a decision using common law—a body of previously recorded legal decisions made by the courts in specific cases. The process of relying on common law is known as stare decisis. The court is likely to use a precedent in using the principle of stare decisis. A precedent is a model case that a court can follow when facing a similar situation.
