SHORT ANSWER

69. Why should employers always perform reference checks?

ANS: To avoid negligent hiring claims and to select the best applicant.

70. Why should firms consider total quality management?

ANS: Law practices are extremely competitive. A law firm should consider using a TQM approach if it wants to compete in this competitive environment. TQM puts the needs of the clients first and lets them drive the business.

71. Explain the purpose of a mission statement.

ANS: A mission statement is an enduring statement of the purpose or intent of the business or law practice. It is the “vision” that guides the firm into the future.

72. Name three functions related to human resources management.

ANS: Compensation and benefits, training and development, performance evaluations, legal compliance, reference checks, hiring and interviewing, coaching, and so forth.

73. What is the purpose of a strategic plan?

ANS: A strategic plan determines the major goals of a firm and then adopts courses of action necessary to achieve those goals.

74. Name three ways a law office can strengthen security.

ANS: Limit free access to the interior of an office to outsiders, issue security badges, use security cards, monitor entrances, have policies and procedures regarding security, and train staff on security issues, among other things.

ESSAY QUESTIONS

75. List and explain three federal employment laws.

ANS: The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA) prohibits employers from discriminating against employees or applicants with disabilities. The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 prohibits employers from discriminating against employees and applicants on the basis of age, where the individual is 40 or older. The Equal Pay Act of 1963 prohibits employers from paying workers of one sex less than the rate paid an employee of the opposite sex for work on jobs that require equal skill, effort, and responsibility, and that are performed under the same working conditions.

76. Describe total quality management and its philosophies in detail.

ANS: Businesses compete on quality. Management has a duty to ensure that quality services are being provided. Quality services involve everyone in the firm, from the top to the bottom. Quality is based on the client’s perspective. Quality services depend on the individual’s, the team’s, and ultimately the organization’s performance. The firm should be constantly improving.

77. Explain the importance of both practice management and administrative management, and discuss which type of management is more important.

ANS: Both practice and administrative management concepts are equally important to the long-term success of a law office. Practice management concerns substantive or case management, including what types of cases are to be accepted or rejected, how cases will be organized, and what types of cases should be focused on. Administrative management concerns the operation of the law office, including financial and personnel matters.

78. List four functions of law office management.

ANS: Financial management is the oversight of a firm's financial assets. Practice management refers to managing the law office's cases. Human resource management refers to recruiting, hiring, training, and evaluating law office personnel. Planning is the process of setting objectives, assessing future needs, and developing a plan of action to achieve the objectives. Organizing is the process of arranging people and physical resources to carry out plans and accomplish objectives. Marketing is the process of educating consumers. Controlling is the process of determining whether the law practice is achieving its objectives. Leadership is the act of motivating or causing others to perform and achieve objectives. Facilities management encompasses planning, designing, controlling, and managing a law office's building or office space. Office services management refers to a number of internal systems and services, such as the mail room, copiers, and file/records management.

79. List the 11 functions of legal administration.

ANS: Practice management, leadership, controlling, financial management, human resources management, planning, marketing management, organization/policies/systems, facilities management, office services management, technology management.
